Work is Started on Pennsy Cut-off

NEW ROAD WILL CONNECT C. & M. V. AND PANHANDLE

With Birds Run Terminal on Former and Morgan Run on Latter--Connected Roads to be Known as Central System--Plan Improved Passenger Service

It was learned yesterday that a force of men started on the new cut to be made by the Pennsy from Birds Run to Morgan Run which will shorten the route 16 miles between the coal fields of southeastern Ohio and the lake shipping points.

This cut will not only shorten the route to Cleveland, Toledo and lake points but will do away with a stiff grade which is encountered near Newcomerstown on the old C. & M. division.

With the completion of the cut, which will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars, the Pennsy will have one of the quickest freight and coal lines from fields of southeastern Ohio to northern points of any railroad in Ohio.

The Central System.

The new railroad when put through will be known as the Central System. At the present time the C. & M. and the T. W. V. & O., roads have been the biggest dividend payers of any of the properties owned by the Pennsy. As the large end of the profits come from the handling of freights and coal rather than the passenger business, with the completion of the short cut, it is said, the road will be one of the best investments of any in the country.

Several New Trains.

It is understood, several trains will be added at the completion of the short cut in order to take care of extra business which has been assured. The fact that the Pennsy will be able to get freight and coal to the lake ports almost two days ahead of any other system, has assured them a large amount of new business.

Liveryman Loses Valuable Horse

A fine black horse, belonging to Otto Norman, the West Lafayette liveryman died of acute indigesrion Tuesday morning. The animal was one of a team purchased sometime ago from Howard Wolfe, the local undertaker and was valued at $250.

Mrs. J. S. Rinner will return today from Columbus City, Ind., where she was called by the death of her cousin, Winfield Lower.

TAFT MAY VETO THE SHERWOOD PENSION BILL

Washington, Dec. 26—Secretary of the Interior Fisher today informed President Taft that final adoption of the Sherwood dollar-a-day pension bill as it passed the house would increase the government's annual pension expenditures at least $75,000,000.

Pension Commissioner Davenport will send a detailed report to congress. Mr. Taft has refrained from stating definitely that he would veto the Sherwood bill if it came to him, but close friends believed he would.

Not Guilty Says Middy; Asks Trial

When arraigned in Mayor Cassingham's court Tuesday, Ernest Middy, who was arrested at his home on North Sixth street last Sunday, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of bootlegging against him. His case was set for hearing next Friday, December 29 and in default of $300 bonds Middy is still in the lockup

Gets Month in Works for Theft of Presents

Because he attempted to get his Christmas presents by taking them from the buggy of Fred Kimberly on Third street Saturday night instead of spending money for them, William Larr will pay for them with a month of hard labor in the workhouse.

Larr was caught in the act, with the goods on him, the owner standing across the street opposite the public hitching rack watching him take the goods from the Kimberley rig. The latter then walked across and "collared" Larr who at first feigned innocence.

The accused was arraigned before Mayor Cassingham yesterday morning and changed his first plea from "not guilty" to "guilty" and was given a $10 fine and 10 days in the works. As he had no money this will mean a month on the stone pile.

ANONYMOUS LETTER BRINGS COMPLAINT

An anonymous letter, containing a complaint to the effect that a certain young man and young woman, unmarried, are living together on South Eighth street and demanding that the make an immediate investigation, was received by Humane Officer G. F. Vensel Tuesday.

Gone Far Enough

The letter went on to say that the people of that section are becoming tired of the couple's actions, which have continued, it is claimed, for the past two years and if the humane officer "does not look after them, someone might look after him."

No Jurisdiction

As Officer Vensel has no jurisdiction in such cases, it is probable that he will turn the letter over to Prosecutor Klein or the police authorities.

$170 is Donated to Army

XMAS BASKETS DISTRIBUTED AMONG NEEDY—FINE PROGRAM AT CITADEL.

Through the generosity of Coshocton people and the untiring efforts of Capt. McCrea and his corps of workers in the Salvation Army no less than forty-four families, making a total of almost one hundred and eighty people, enjoyed a delightful Christmas. Baskets were sent out by the Army and in the baskets were to be found everything necessary for an excellent Christmas dinner.

$170 Donated

The Army's total income from the Christmas kettles on the street was $78.54. The Elks lodge made the generous donation of $25, and the house to house canvas and other small donations aggregated $66.50 making a total donation of $170.04. The total expense for the baskets, and Christmas gifts of every description was $142.25 and the Army is left with a balance of $27.79 in the treasury.

Treat for Children

Monday evening the citadel was crowded with an eager company of those who had come to enjoy the Christmas program and the big Christmas tree. The room was filled to its utmost capacity and gifts of clothing and other useful articles together with candy (200 boxes of it used in the making of the Santa Claus chimney) pop corn, oranges, etc., were given to the children at the completion of the program by Santa Claus himself.

Young People's Annual

Next Monday there will be a big celebration at the citadel known as the Young People's Annual, the New Year's outlook upon the work for the year.

A paper on "How to gain new scholars for our school will be read by Miss Sadie McCullough and one on "How to keep the new scholars when we have gained them" will be given by Serg. Maj Stone. The entire program will be helpful and interesting and the meeting promises to be an excellent one. It is one of the most important of the year for the young people.

Stricken by Diphtheria while on Visit

While on a visit with his aunt, Mrs. Frank Hartman on Sycamore street, Clark Christy of Akron, O., was stricken by diphtheria and the Hartman home has been placed under quarantine as a result.

The case is not considered a serious one as yet and the patient was reported getting along nicely last evening.

SCOTT FUNERAL.

Funeral services over the remains of Miss Nancy Scott who died at her home near Fresno on Sunday were held Tuesday morning from the late home. Burial took place in Amity cemetery.

John Agnew last evening returned to Cleveland after spending Christmas at the home of his parents on South Fourth street.

CHIEF MAPEL WILL BE BACK ON JOB JAN. 1

PEREMPTORY WRIT TO MAYOR CASSINGHAM FROM CIRCUIT COURT ISSUED TUESDAY.

A perenptory writ to Mayor G W. Cassingham, in which he is ordered to reinstate Chief of Police John R. Mapel and make return, showing that he has complied with the order by 10 a. m. January 1, was issued by Clerk Joe Haverick Tuesday, following the receipt of the necessary entry from the circuit court, which was spread on the circuit court journal A copy of the writ was sent to the judges of the circuit court for their O. K.'s after which the mayor will be served with the same.

By Supreme Court.

The writ is issued following the decision in the celebrated case, which was handed down by the state supreme court two weeks ago In addition to the order for reinstatement, the mayor is also ordered to restore to Mapel all the emoluments of the office.

Record not Good; Potter to the Works

Harrison Potter pleaded guilty to intoxication yesterday morning in Mayor Cassingham's court and as a result will have to go to the workhouse to finish a commuted sentence for his folly. He was arrested first upon an assault and battery charge filed by John Reed. To this charge he refused to plead guilty thinking it would save him from the works by saying he was drunk. Mayor Cassingham informed him this was sufficient grounds to send him to the works. Because of Potter's bad past behavior he was given one year on the Canton stone pile.

Train is Delayed by Breakdown

Cuts Corn with Razor; She May Die

Zanesville, O., Dec. 26 – Cutting a corn with a razor has had serious results for Mrs. Nancy Ashcraft, aged 54 years. She is lying in a critical condition from blood poisoning at her home 1 1-2 miles north of Frazeysburg.

Mrs. Asheraft received a small cut on her toe from a razor with which she was trimming a corn about a month ago. The toe became sore and swollen at once. Shortly afterwards she wore a pair of tight shoes while attending a funeral, and this is believed to have aggravated the wound

Blood poisoning has now infected the leg to a point above the knee, and, it is stated, Mrs. Asheraft has small chance of recovery.

Rev. Millard Brelsford yesterday returned to Cleveland after spending Christmas at the home of Mrs. Brelsford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Carhart in Roscoe.

Phone Rates are Boosted at Tiffin

City Council Appeals to State Public Service Commission after Vain Attempt to Prevent Raise by Consolidated Telephone Co.

In view of the expected consolidation of the local Citizens and Central Union telephone properties under the ownership of the recently organized Coshocton Telephone Co., the controversy between the city of Tiffin and the Tiffin Consolidated Telephone Co. is of interest to Coshocton telephone patrons. When the consolidated company took over the property of the two old companies in Tiffin, there followed a boost in the rates. This was strenuously objected to by the city council, which attempted to fix new rates, that were, in some instances a compromise between the old and new. The company appealed to Attorney General Hogan, who gave an opinion to the effect that the city council had no power whatever to fix rates, this power being wholly within the hands of the state public service commission. The city has now filed with the commission, its answer and counter petition to the petition recently filed with the commission by the consolidated company, in which it is charged that the new rates fixed by the company are exhorbitant. The details of the counter petition are contained in the following dispatch from Columbus Tuesday:

Council Attempts Cut

Columbus O., Dec. 26—The city of Tiffin has filed with the Ohio public service commission an answer and counter petition to the petition filed recenly by the Tiffin Consolidated Telephone company which protested against the action of the Tiffin council in attempting to cut telephone rates in that city.

Rates Are Exhorbitant

The answer is that the rates fixed by the consolidated company are exhorbitant and that the action of council was in the interest of justice to the patrons of the telephone service. A schedule of rates is filed to bear out the counter petition. The city represents that before the Tiffin Home Telephone company and the Central Union company of Tiffin consolidated several months ago, the charges for a one-line phone in a business establishment or public office was $2.50 a month and that this charge was raised to $3.50 by the consolidation, Council, October 4 of this year cut this to $3, a compromise rate.

Other Cuts Were Made

In the case of a party line in a business place the rate before consolidation, the counter petition says, was $2 but was increased to $3 after the merger. Council tried to make it $2.50. In the case of single or one-line residence phones the rate before merging was $1.50 but was increased to $2 by the consolidation. Council tried to change it back to $1.50. For party line phones in residences the pre-consolidation tariff was $1 but was increased to $1.50 and council attempted to change it back to $1.

Two Miners Die in Fall from Bridge

St. Clairsville, O., Dec. 26 The bodies of John Puck, aged 50, and his son, John, aged 25, coal miners, were found under a railroad bridge in McMahon's creek at Glencoe, near here today. It is presumed they fell while stepping out of the way of a B. & O. railroad train during the night and were drowned. There were no marks of violence.

At Last, Cold WaveComing

Des Moines, Iowa, Dec. 26 - Nearly six inches of snow had fallen in central Iowa at noon and with a cold wave on in the west, zero weather is expected tonight. Crop experts say the snow is worth millons to farmers So far trains have been only slightly delayed.

THE WEATHER

FOR OHIO—Snow or rain and colder Wednesday, much colder by night; Thursday, continued cold.

Kansas Couple Born on Same Day also Die on Same

Wichita, Kansas, Dec. 26—Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey pioneer residents of this city, who were born on the same day, 76 years ago, and who died within a period of four hours, were buried here today Both coffins were lowered into one grave.

Bailey, a veteran of the Civil War, died at his home here. Death came to his wife in an insane asylum in Osawatomie Kansas. Neither knew the other was ill.

NO XMAS CHEER; MAN TAKES LIFE

Newark, O., Dec. 26—Lack of Christmas cheer drove George Minkewitch, single, aged 40, to despondency and suicide here today. After bemoaning the circumstances which prohibited the "Santa Claus" spirit Minkewitch placed the muzzle of a shotgun in his mouth and pulled the trigger. Death resulted almost instantly.

Els Sale at Chili is Well Attended

The public sale of the personal property of the late John Els, held at the home in Chili Tuesday was well attended despite the very inclement weather and the articles brought good prices. The sale was managed by Attorney George D. Klein, the administrator of the estate and F. R. Klein of Pearl acted as auctioneer

SALOONISTS ALSO WANT PROTECTION

WILL ASK FOR ORDINANCE PROVIDING STIFF FINE FOR INORS WHO ENTER SALOONS.

It is learned upon good authority that the saloonkeepers within a day or two will call a meeting for the purpose of devising a plan to protect their interests as well as the minors who come in to buy a drink.

Representatives of the Citizens League will be asked to be present

There has been considerable feeling existing for some time among the saloonists and many have expressed the opinion that the new ordinance, which becomes effective, Saturday, December 30, does not thoroughly cover the ground. They are "fleeced" as they put it, while the minor who willfully lies to the saloonist goes unharmed.

Keep 'Em Out

Several of the saloonkeepers of the city feel that, it would be only justice to pass a city ordinance more severe than the present state law, making it a serious offense for a minor to enter a saloon, and that a stiff fine be attached for such an offense. In this way the saloonist believes that he would come nearer having protection and consequently it would be easier to "regulate" his business. At the present time, it is understood, a state law punishes the minor who buys a drink, in the event such a charge is placed against him, by a fine of from $1 to $25.

Age a Puzzle

Daily, say saloonkeepers, there are minors entering saloons who are between the ages of 18 to 21 years, who it is impossible to judge as to their ages. When asked their age they invariably say "21" and are sold a drink. In the event that someone complains that they are not of age the saloonkeeper has to "divy" up $100 or more besides facing a jail sentence.

Body of Victim Laid to Rest in Unknown Grave

Without a relative to shed a tear nor religious ceremony, the remains of the unknown man, who was ground to pieces under the wheels of a freight train on the Pennsy, west of Morgan Run last Sunday morning, were laid to rest in South Lawn cemetery Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

A slab will mark the grave with the inscription "unknown."

The victim was a shoe string peddler but carried nothing to show where his home was. It is presumed he was riding an eastbound freight train and fell between the cars to his death.

LARR MADE THE TRIP TO TOWN IN BORROWED RIG

Mrs. Belle Seedles of the Fresno vicinity was in the city Tuesday to regain possession of her horse and buggy, which William Larr drove to this city last Saturday, the trip winding up with the driver going to jail on the charge of attempting to loot a buggy.

Larr, it is said, boards at the Seedles home and borrowed the rig with which to make the trip to the city Saturday When he failed to return, Mrs. Seedles became anxious but later learned of Larr's arrest. The police had placed the rig in a livery barn, where it was held for the owner.

Columbus Scouts Care for Stanley

Columbus, O., Dec. 25—En route from Portland, Me., to California, Clarence Stanley, a boy scout, who is making his way by selling postal cards, stopped off in Columbus several days ago. He will continue his trip West Wednesday. Stanley is 16 years old and started from Portland in company with two Indians, two other boys, several dogs and a horse. All but Stanley fell by the wayside and returned to Portland.

Monday was his sixtieth day out and he has covered 1000 miles of the trip. He was without funds when he reached Columbus but was taken in by the Boy Scout organization here until he could get a start again.

Strategy.

Edna—Jack and I had the most delightful time on shipboard.

Katharine—Gracious! I don't see how you could enjoy yourselves under the watchful eyes of the chaperon.

Edna—Oh, we used a little strategy. You see, we told the chaperon if she would close her eyes she would avoid seasickness, and she kept her eyes closed most of the voyage.

Second Band Concert for Next Sunday

The second concert by The Coshoctin Imperial band will be held at the Pastime theatre next Sunday afternoon. In addition to the regular concert, a number of features will also be presented among which are a cornet solo by Mrs. Mugford of Vine street, Prof. Pugner of Massillon who will render a clarionet solo and a vocal solo by W. W. McCloy.

The last concert given by the Imperial band was exceptionally good, and the coming one promises to be even better than the last one.

MARYLAND GOVERNOR.

Aids Movement to Urge Americans to See Their Own Country.

"SEE AMERICA FIRST."

Movement to Induce Americans to Travel In Their Own Country.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 25.—Governor Austin L. Crothers is back of a plan to induce Americans to see the wonders of their own country before going abroad. In a letter to the governors of other states asking them to send representatives to a convention to be held here in January he points out that millions of dollars are spent in foreign travel by men and women who know but little of the United States.

Shoes will Cost More Next Fall

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 24—Shoes will cost 50 cents more a pair next autumn, wholesale and retail, if contemplated advances are made, and the public must pay $4.50 for footwear which cost $4 less in the autumn of 1910.

Manufacturers profess to be unable to foresee when there will be a reduction, or when prices will stop going up. They are explaining the situation in catalogs sent to distributors.

Removal of the duty on hides by the Payne-Aldrich tariff law did not cheapen them, it is explained, and prices of leather have advanced steadily.

How Frisco Celebrated

San Francisco, Dec. 24—One hundred thousand persons joined tonight in singing, "Adeste Fidelis" at the conclusion of the city's open air celebration of Christmas eve.

It followed a program rendered by a trained chorus and the members of the French Opera company holding its winter season in San Francisco.

Jan Kubelik, the violinist, played to the vast audience, and David Bispham, the baritone, sang. Singers and chorus occupied a stand against a big building in the business center. Street traffic was suspended.

FARMERS LORAIN COUNTY ORGANIZE

"The Lorain County Agricultural Extension School," is the name of a farmers' organization which has for its object, "the education, betterment and welfare of its members through the extension of the teachings throughout Lorain County of the College of Agriculture and Domestic Science of the Ohio State University, and in the furtherance of that purpose this School shall arrange for the holding of schools in Lorain county in which instruction shall be given in soil fertility, stock raising, crop production, dairying, horticulture, domestic science home sanitation and kindred subjects." This organization has adopted a constitution, elected officers and is to be a permanent institution. The first annual meeting will be held at Elyria, Jan 8 to 11, 1912. Mr. C. E. Haven is secretary.

Entertain at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Owens of West Lafayette pleasantly entertained the following guests at Xmas dinner: Mr. and Mrs. Price Owens, and son Russell, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Owens, and son Russell, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Owens and son Kenneth, Mrs. William West, Mrs. Mary Werts and Miss Blanche West.

The hostesses were surprised with a number of beautiful presents, and after the presentation a sumptuous three course dinner was served to the guests.

New York, Dec. 25.—Jimmy Scully's little sister was in a fair way to get a $25,000 diamond necklace for Christmas, for Jimmy had found on the street a beautiful bauble of 239 shiny stones which he had stowed away, thinking the stones were glass and considering the string a perfectly appropriate gift for Mary. However, when James innocently displayed his find an uproar and hurried calling in of an expert on precious stones followed.

It was speedily determined that the necklace was very valuable. Advertisements were hastily scanned and a reply to one revealed that the necklace was the property of Mrs. Mary Stenman of Tuxedo Park. In her happiness at recovering her gems she made Jimmy a present of a brand new $100 bill.

A Giant Emperor.

Maximinus, the giant Roman emperor, could twist coins into corkscrews, powder hard rocks between his fingers and do other seemingly impossible things. When angered he often broke the jaw of a horse or the skull of an ox with his fist. His wife's bracelet served him for a ring, and every day he ate sixty pounds of meat and drank six amphora of wine.

The Quickest Cough Cure-Cheap, But Unequaled

A Whole Pint of It for 50c. Saves You $2. Does the Work Quickly or Money Refunded.

For quick and positive results, the pint of cough syrup that you make with a 50-cent bottle of Pinex, cannot be equalled. It takes hold instantly and will usually stop the most obstinate deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Even croup and whooping cough yield to it quickly.

The user of Pinex mixes it with home-made sugar syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of better cough remedy than you could buy ready mixed for $2.50. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions in package.

Pinex soothes and heals the inflamed membranes with remarkable rapidity. It stimulates the appetite, is slightly laxative, and tastes good—children like it. Excellent for hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, and other throat troubles, and has a wonderful record in cases of incipient lung trouble.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Simply mix with sugar syrup or strained honey in a pint bottle, and it is ready for use. Used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will gladly get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

REV. RICHESON IS REMEMBERED

Boston, Dec. 24—Christmas eve found Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, who is awaiting trial charged with the poisoning of his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell, recovering from the effects of his self-mutilation and the subsequent surgical operation last Wednesday.

Several bouquets of flowers, one the holiday gift of his fiancee, Miss Violet Edmands, were placed beside the minister's cot as reminders of the Christmas tide.

The initiative in any step looking to the appointment of a commission to determine whether Richeson is insane will not be taken by District Attorney Pelletier. The defense has taken no step as yet towards raising the question of sanity.

PERSONALS

E. C. Carr, jr. returned to Canton last evening after spending Christmas at his home in Coshocton.

Derris Roderick and Charles Bolden spent Christmas day in Canton the guests of friends.

William Henderson will return to Pittsburg today after spending Christmas at the home of his mother, Mrs. Catherine Henderson in Roscoe.

J. E. Moore of Cleveland was the guest of Coshocton friends Sunday and Monday.

Tom O'Donnell spent Christmas with his mother and brothers at his old home in Upper Sandusky.

Mrs. Anna Powelson, son Lloyd and Melvine Powelson of Tyndal were shopping in the city Saturday.

Harry DeVere, ahead of "The Girl and the Chauffeur," which appears at the Sixth Street Theatre next Saturday night, was in the city Monday.

PLAN AUTO DELIVERY

A plan is again on foot to start a central delivery system, using automobiles.

Yesterday a man, who asked that his name be omitted, called upon Charles Loos & Sons, local agents for the Overland and Ford Cars. He stated that he had central automobiles delievrry systems in several towns which were being successfully and profitably operated.

He expects to make a canvass of the retail merchants of the city and if sufficient number can be interested will probably start one here. He is enthusiastic about the new Ford delivery car which he stated had already demonstrated its merits in several of the large cities of the country where tried out, particularly Cleveland and Detroit.

Switzerland is said now to have more visitors from the United than from any other nation except its next door neighbor, Germany. The city of Lucerne alone entertained more U. in twenty-six thousand Americans in 1910.

PASTOR FAINTS IN THE PULPIT

Lakewood, N. J., Dec. 24—The fashionable congregation attending services at All Saints Episcopal church this morning was thrown into confusion when the Rev. Mr. Snively of New York suddenly threw up his hands and fell in a dead faint in the pulpit.

A moment of tense silence was broken by Miss Helen Hoyt, a choir girl, who emitted a piercing scream, and almost went into hysterics.

Several members of the congregation left the church. Dr. Snively was removed to the vestry where restoratives were applied, and the Rev. E. E. Mathews went on with the services.

$50 BILL SHOT INTO DOG'S HIDE

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Dec. 24—A large black hound at Swoyerville was wounded last night by $50 in bills and some small shot being fired into his hide. Now that he's worth $50 more than he was yesterday he cannot be found.

The money belonged to John Vincent, who, afraid to trust it in his pockets or his trunk at his boarding house, hid it in the barrel of his old shotgun.

While Vincent was out last night the dog made so much disturbance that another of the boarders slipped a shell into Vincent's shotgun and fired at the dog. Vincent is looking for the dog.

MRS. P. MORGAN IS INTERVIEWED

New York, Dec. 25.—Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, upon her arrival from Europe Saturday gave the longest interview of her life and devoted the greater part of it to voicing her dislike for interviews and the "personal side" of the newspapers.

Approached by two reporters she spoke first:

"Who are you? Reporters?"

"The ship's officers say the passage was a stormy one," suggested one.

"It was Mrs. Morgan replied. "I think it was the worst storm I ever encountered.

"Where have you been?" she was asked.

"You must look up your files for that. I'm not going to be interviewed. To a woman of refinement all this publicity is hateful. Why, the papers have printed photographs of two of my friends but they've never printed mine."

"I have a camera here," said one of the newspaper men "and if you insist—"

"Don't you dare. If you do I'll smash the camera," she said.

"I have often advised reporters to take up a decent profession," she added.

"Perhaps," said a reporter, "we had all better write to Mr. Morgan and tell him that we are anxious to become bankers."

Mrs. Morgan smiled again. "I have not suffered as much as my daughter, who doesn't like it, either. Oh, I like the newspapers, but I don't like the gossip, the personal side.

"Why, I've never given such a long interview in my life."

Bucyrus, Dec. 25.—Jacob Souder aged 80, a widower, purporting to be the wealthiest farmer in Crawford county, went to his son's house, ten miles east of Bucyrus, to assist in butchering. He ate heavily of the fresh pork and at noon started out to feed the hogs. Not returning for dinner, his daughter-in-law went to look for him and found him dead beside the pig-pen. His death is thought to have been due to heart failure, augmented by his heavy meal of pork.

Local Chapter Sends Flowers

The local chapter of the Phi Sigma Chin sent a huge floral piece to the home of the late Murrell Logsdon in Zanesville yesterday as a token of esteem in which the founder of the fraternity was held. Raymie Curtis and William Lynde will attend the funeral today.

Earl J. Speck of Dennison spent Saturday and Sunday the guest of friends in the city.

LITTLE GIRL WAS BURNED TO DEATH

Bellaire—Ada Leona Workman aged 13 who lives seven miles west of Bridgeport, on the C. L. & W. railroad, was so badly burned Wednesday that her death resulted that evening. The girl was an epileptic and fell against a red-hot poker in the hands of her eight-year-old brother. Her dress was ignited and before help could be summoned she was enveloped in flames, and so terribly burned that her life could not be saved.

Large Number of Entries for Poultry Show

Entries for the poultry show to be held by the Coshocton County Poultry Association at the city hall are already nearly swamping the secretary, who states that from all present appearances, this year's exhibition will be a record breaker.

Birds from all over the state have been entered, and especially Zanesville, Connotton, Newark and Columbus will be seen in large numbers.

Many prize birds owned by Coshocton fanciers will also be on exhibition.

The entries will close Thursday, and all must be in by that time or they will not be received. A number of prize lists can be secured from the secretary.

RUNDOWN MEADOWS WILL RESPOND TO FERTILIZATION

If Barnyard Manure Is Available It Should Be Applied In Fall Or Winter, Or Commercial Fertilizer High In Nitrogen Can Be Used.

(By G. Livingston, College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.)

Proper Treatment of Meadows Will Increase the Hay Crop.

Much of the land in this state devoted to the growing of grass, either for hay or pasture, is hillside land, or low, poorly drained areas, or land that for some reason is not well adapted to the growing of grain and other cultivated crops. Some of this land devoted to the growing of grass should not be plowed and for this reason can not enter into the rotation. This is particularly true of hillside fields, which if plowed and planted to a cultivated crop would likely suffer a loss of the surface soil by washing. In some such cases, and in other cases, it is often desirable to maintain a permanent meadow or pasture.

Permanent pastures and meadows are usually regarded by farmers as supplementary crops and few expect much if any profit from them. It is the general practice to harvest the crop, either as hay or by pasturing each year, forgetting that pasture and meadow crops must have food the same as other crops in order to give good results. Some few farmers who, first in an experimental way, have applied barnyard manure or commercial fertilizers to runout meadows or pastures, have been so pleased with the results and increased yields that they now consider meadows and pastures of equal value to the grain and other cultivated crops.

A number of experiment stations have received most gratifying results by fertilizing the grass crop with barnyard manure or commercial fertilizers, but as yet few farmers realize the value of this practice.

An old meadow or pasture that has been cropped for several years, if it is not desirable for one reason or another to put it into the rotation, can be reseeded without plowing. The field should be cut up pretty thoroughly with a disk harrow and then reseeded. Probably the best time to disk and reseed would be in August or September. If reseeded at this time a fair crop of hay can be expected the next year after the new seeding. However, the reseeding can be done early in the spring. In reseeding it is often desirable to sow a mixture of seeds rather than one variety. A mixture usually gives greater production than seeding from one grass and at the same time is a surer crop. Soil irregularities and weather conditions will not influence the total crop as much as they would one grass. If for pasture, such grasses should be selected as will give a continuous growth throughout the season. If the soil is poorly drained the mixture should contain a liberal amount of redtop and alsike clover, as these crops will grow better than some of the other grasses on this kind of soil.

Many meadows or pastures that are to be reseeded would respond to an application of a ton of finely ground limestone to the surface after disking. This is particularly true of those fields not located on the limestone soils, but often limestone soils will be greatly benefitted by such an application.

Old meadows and those that are reseeded should receive an application of barnyard manure or commercial fertilizer. If barnyard manure is available it should be applied with a spreader or scattered very thinly by hand. Manures can be applied in the fall or during the winter. If manure is not available, an application of commercial fertilizer should be made in the spring about the time the grass is starting to grow. Since grasses are not able to use the nitrogen from the atmosphere, the fertilizer should contain a relatively high per cent of nitrogen. Mr. Williams, of the Ohio experiment station, suggests for a timothy meadow on ordinary soil an application in the spring of 100 pounds nitrate of soda, 100 pounds of acid phosphate and 25 pounds of muriate of potash. If the field has been cropped for a number of years without fertilization a more liberal application should be made.

FILLING THE EGG BASKET DURING WINTER MONTHS

For Winter Egg Production the Hens Must Have Congenial Surroundings.

The three essentials in winter egg production are good hens, congenial surroundings and suitable food. There is no "winter egg producing breed." More depends upon the way the hens have been bred and selected than upon the breed. One should select hens from winter-laying strains. The egg-type of hen has a body that is triangular in three ways, viz., (1) on sides, front to rear; (2) top and bottom, front to rear; (3) base of tail downward; their backs are broad and long, necks of medium length, eyes bright and lustrous. Great laying strains can be produced if hens of this type are selected from year to year for the breeding pen.

It never pays to keep half grown or very old fowls during the winter. winter. They are not only an additional expense, but they hinder the production of laying hens. Well matured pullets and young hens make the best winter layers. Select a type as stated before and notice the actions of the fowl. She is always busy, and nervous.

The surroundings must be congenial. This means that the house must be roomy, have plenty of fresh air but no drafts, abundance of sunlight, clean nests and roosting places, and a good place to wallow. Unless hens are "happy" no amount of scientific breeding or feeding will induce them to lay during the winter. All surroundings should be such that the hen will feel at home.

The egg is a manufactured product It is made from food by a very delicate process of digestion and secretion. A factory can not make a plow or a pair of shoes unless it is provided with the proper materials with which to work. Neither can a hen produce an egg unless she is given the materials that compose fresh eggs. Besides she must have materials to maintain the body. Fresh eggs are composed of 65.7 per cent water, 12.2 per cent ash, 11.4 per cent protein, 8.9 per cent fat. She would have a ration of "grains, greens, grubs, and grits." A variety of grains, clover or alfalfa hay and vegetables for greens, waste meat for grubs, sharp sand or commercial grit and plenty of clean water. Feed all grains in a deep litter of straw, hay or wood shavings so that the hen will be compelled to exercise in securing her food. C. R. TITLOW, College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

BOSTON WOOL.

Boston, Dec., 26.—Heavy transactions continue in the wool market and manufacturers see but little prospect of lower prices. Fine territory staple and half-blood Montana staple sells at 21c and 22c respectively and fine territory clothing at 18c. There is a strong demand for Ohio delaine and this is readily paid with one-quarter blood, nearby fleeces selling at 25c. The tariff board had very little effect upon trading. Pulled wool is also in active demand.

Wrote of Scenery He Never Saw.

The most notable instance of a novel dealing with a country which the author had never seen was Shorthouse's "John Inglesant."

The second volume of that remarkable romance deals in the most detailed way with Italian manners and Italian scenery. Many of the descriptions—that of Umbria at night, for instance, and the scene in the pavilion in the forest—are charged with the very atmosphere of Italy; and Florence during the plague lives horribly before our eyes. Yet Joseph Henry Shorthouse had never been in Italy. Enthusiasm and the genius for assimilation evolved it all in a quiet house at Edgbaston.—London Chronicle.

To THE THEATRE

"A COWBOY'S HONOR"

"A Cowboy's Honor" which comes to the Sixth Street Theatre one night only December 28 is not a blood-curdling play on the contrary, a quiet, wholesome, western comedy drama with a moral. A play that has an uplifting effect on all who attend. To see such a play is equally as good as hearing a sermon. You'll say so too after you have listened to Bob Larkin the Cowboy Preacher who is the leading character.

"THE FIGHTING PARSON"

Something away from the ordinary will be seen in "The Fighting Parson" which plays the Sixth Street Theatre tonight.

The author of this extraordinary play, John A. Preston, has taken for his subject, a character not very often portrayed on the stage. He has surrounded his subject with the people of the slum districts of New York City, and the way that this Parson, who is only a young man, handles them, is something worth seeing.

THE GIRL AND THE CHAUFFEUR.

Zadora Zay and Charles Garfield, who play the title roles in "The Girl and The Chauffeur," are among the most popular players who will appear here this season, having been with some of America's greatest successes. During the long run of the play at the Casino in New York, the newspaper critics agreed that the biggest hit of Mr. Garfield's career was made in the character of Zack Claiborn in "The Girl and The Chauffeur."

This play is so far different to any yet staged that it defies classification. It teems with action, and great climaxes but is still a musical play, being embellished by pretty girls and jingly music. It is booked to appear at the Sixth Street Theatre for one night Saturday Dec. 30.

GRAHAME STOCK COMPANY

"The Stepson" is the title of next Monday afternoon's New Year's matinee at the Sixth Street Theatre, the occasion of the Grahame Stock Company's opening of a week's engagement in this city. The story of "The Stepson," simple, yet strong, deals with the rise in life of a poor young locksmith, who climbs to a position of wealth and power. The incentive for this struggle lies in the old, old story of man's love for woman, the object of affection in this case being a girl of wealth, refinement and of a far different station in life. There is an unusually strong vein of comedy running through the play, which, with several new and novel vaudeville numbers between the acts, combine in making a very complete holiday entertainment at popular prices. New Year's night's play will be a scenic melodrama, by name, "Chinatown Charlie," also containing a full line of specialties. During the week will be presented "The Girl from Delmonico's," "The Easy Way," "A Hidden Crime," "The Poisoner," "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" and an elaborate production of the classic drama, "Rip Van Winkle." Prices for the two holiday performances will be matinee, 10 and 20 cents, night, 10c, 20c and 30c. Tuesday night the usual half-price courtesy will be extended to ladies.

At Bevieux (Ooold Bex), among the Alps, the railroad passes the rocksalt mines, from which the Swiss government procures most of the salt whose sale is a government monopoly, and often sold only by the local postmaster, who deals not only in stamps, but in salt. At this point a toothed rail is brought into play, and the gradient rapidly increases, as the cars pass through woods of walnuts and chestnuts, here an important item of the diet and income of their owners.—National Magazine.

PROSECUTION AGAIN SCORES

Plea of Meat Packers For Immunity Overruled by the Court.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—When the trial of the meat packers, charged by the government with violations of the Sherman anti-trust law, was resumed Attorney John S. Miller, in behalf of the packers, created a surprise by reviving the famous immunity plea, successfully used by the packers several years ago when they were prosecuted by the government.

Attorney Miller moved that all testimony in the present case relating to transactions prior to July 1, 1905, be excluded as incompetent.

Counsel contended that the immunity plea applied to all the ten defendants who testified before the Garfield investigating commission.

Counsel for the government contested the motion on the ground that the court had already passed on the question in ruling against the plea in abatement.

Judge Carpenter overruled the motion to exclude testimony concerning operations of the alleged trust prior to 1903.

Thieves Make Good Haul.

Philadelphia, Dec. 26.—The new Brethren church here, in the center of the city, was robbed of more than $2,000 in cash. The big safe on the second floor of the building has been broken open and all the money taken. There is no clew to the robbers.

Says He Seeks Vindication

New York, Dec. 26. Articles alleged to have been derogatory to Dr. Frederick A. Cook published in the New York Times have been made the basis of a suit for $100,000 filed by him against that publication. Specific complaint is made of three articles.

One, the petition says, was printed Oct. 25, 1911, and said that a meeting held by Dr. Cook in Denmark was broken up by the audience, that he was showered with bad eggs, was forced to flee by a side door and was protected only by a strong detachment of police. Dr. Cook's attorneys, Robson & Simpson, say the truth of the matter is that Dr. Cook had an audience of 1,500 people, who listened to him courteously and attentively, frequently applauded, and that Dr. Norman Hausen, who raised objection to Dr. Cook's lecture, was compelled to leave the hall.

The second cause of action is an article published in the Times May 21, 1910, saying Dr. Cook had attempted to steal the life work of Rev. Thomas Bridges, a missionary at Terra Del Fuego, who had compiled a Yahgan Indian grammar and dictionary. In the introductory chapter of this book which Dr. Cook had published, he says, "the credit of collecting and making this Yahgan grammar and dictionary belong solely to Mr. Bridges, who devoted most of his time during 37 years in recording this material. My work is limited to a slight rearrangement of the words," etc.

For the third cause of action is cited an article in the Times Dec. 22, 1909, charging that Dr. Cook had no original observations, but had used some of the faked observations of Dunkle & Loose, which he had submitted to Copenhagen. The Times itself, the attorneys say, disproved this charge by printing an interview with Commodore Gustav Holm, a member of the examining committee, who said: "Loose's observations were not used in the papers which Dr. Cook submitted to the university."

"Dr. Cook's purpose is not to get a large sum of money, but to get vindication," said Attorney Ely Simpson.

HELD BY SUN WORSHIPERS

Number of Chicago Boys Said to Be Under Hypnotic Influence.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—That other boys than Willie Lindsay, the Philadelphia boy, are members of the Hansen sun worship cult, is the statement made by a woman to juvenile court officers here. Her name is not made public. The woman is said to have been a follower of the cult and to know the inner secrets of the Mazdaznan temple. Most of the boys who were taken in by the cult have disappeared from public view and are now attendants about the temple. It is ascertained this woman is willing to testify.

One of the boys, according to her story, can be seen by any chance visitor at the temple. He opens the front door and ushers visitors into the temple. This boy, and most of the others, according to the story of the mysterious witness, have the appearance of those under hypnotic influence.

TELEGRAPHIC TIPS.

Crooksville, O.—Charles Jones, 52, was found dead south of this city. He is known to have received money recently, and murder is suspected.

Chicago.—The plant of the Daily Calumet, a newspaper published in South Chicago, was wrecked by persons believed to be members of a Black Hand organization.

Latrobe, Pa.—Dynamite being prepared for a Christmas celebration in a foreign miners' boarding house at Newberry exploded, killing two men and fatally injuring four others.

At Tripoli—Searching a Camel Driver For Contraband of War

ITALY'S treatment of her Arab prisoners in Tripoli has brought down upon her the condemnation of the press of nearly all civilized countries, some of which have conveniently forgotten similar episodes in their own wars with savage or barbarous tribes. Inexcusable as are the deeds of blood attributed to the combatants on both sides—the Italian cruelties are said to have been in the nature of reprisals for unspeakable treatment of their wounded by the Arabs—the latter may at least plead that their atrocities are committed in defense of their fatherland, while even if it be admitted that such indiscriminate bloodshed is an unavoidable accompaniment of an African war it may also be argued that Italy was not forced to begin hostilities, but apparently entered upon the Tripolitan adventure with a light heart in the expectation that the isolated Turkish province would prove an easy conquest. Lest any arms should be brought into the city for use against themselves, the Italians have established a strict system of searching all incoming travelers, like the camel driver shown in the illustration, and some of the tales of horror that come from Tripoli relate to executions connected with those searches.

Slaughtered by Cossacks

Teheran, Persia, Dec. 26.—Martial law was proclaimed here. Persian Cossacks were stationed in the government buildings to prevent a meeting of the national council in the parliament room.

W. Morgan Shuster, the American treasurer-general, who has been dismissed because of protests from Russia, is preparing to leave the country.

After a 12-hour carnival of slaughter in Resht, capital of the Persian province of Ghilan, in which approximately 1,500 Persian men, women and children were slain by Russian Cossacks, the soldiers continued their bloody work by sending detachments of troops to shoot down the refugees who were fleeing from the city. Inside Resht, the orgy of blood still went on also.

Details of the massacre were received here by a courier who traveled the 150 miles of country between Resht and the capital by horseback. The messenger brought a plea for aid from the governor of Ghilan. He declared that Russians were killing defenseless men, women and children in Anzili, Masula and Ardabil, as well as in Resht.

The Russians started the slaughter by shooting down a dozen Persians who had assembled in front of a proclamation upon a public building.

Inflamed by the sight of blood, the savage Cossacks swept through the street, shooting at every person in sight. Foot soldiers invaded the dwellings and stores of peaceful citizens, driving them into the streets in terror, where they fell victims to the insane rage of the Cossacks.

Little children were brained before the eyes of their horror-stricken parents. Aged men and women were torn from limb to limb while their relatives and friends begged piteously for mercy.

SHE HAD SOME LOVE AFFAIRS

Line of Search For Missing Girl Is Changed by Police.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—With the discovery by the police that Violet Buehler, missing since Nov. 25, had not only one but several romances, the line of search has been changed. Inspector Hunt claimed to have reliable information that Violet was given a diamond ring by a police lieutenant. It was reported that the girl was in Chicago and that she would be at home soon. The story apparently was not reliable, however, and the police planned to continue their search for her.

Rescued by Firemen.

Philadelphia, Dec. 26.—Twelve persons many of them members of the atrical companies playing in this city, were carried through thick smoke to safety when fire broke out in the Bernice apartment house.

TEN DONT'S FOR YOUTHS

Minister Whose Suggestions For Wives Caused a Stir Offers Advice.

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 26. — The Rev. Dr. Albert Marion Hyde of the Porter Congregational church, whose suggestions for wives two weeks ago were widely discussed and replied to, has given the following 10 suggestions for young men, his subject being: "Ten Don'ts for Young Men:"

"Do not speak of 'the old gent' and 'the old woman'; fathers and mothers are a necessary evil in the present system of things. They have spoken respectfully of you when outsiders could not see anything on which they could even hang a small compliment.

"Do not give all your attention to the education of brains on the outside of your head. Football hair and a letter on your jersey are not a sufficient training for life. The young fellow who is old-fashioned enough to go to school for study still has a place in the world.

"Do not invest your nickel in a glass of beer and then afterward criticise the other fellow who has invested his nickel in a savings bank. Beer checks and savings bank checks as investments are not in the same class.

"Do not put the money of your tailor and your washwoman in $5 opera seats and $2 theater tickets. They may prefer to spend their earnings in some other way.

"Do not measure your job entirely by the size of your pay envelope and the length of the vacation. Highway robbery is an ideal vocation measured in these ways.

"Do not try to get rich quick; smarter men than you who have come to town without a cent have tried it and lost all they had.

"Do not wrong a woman. Every woman is some mother's daughter. The white life you ask from your mother's daughter you have no right to take from the daughter of another.

"Do not defile your tongue with profane and vulgar speech, revealing your ignorance and showing the coarseness in your soul.

"Do not think you have sounded all the ocean of truth when you have let out all your little line. The ocean on whose shoe Newton had gathered only a few pebbles can never be all in your tineup.

"Do not be a stranger to the church of your father. The old pew looks lonesome without you. Your father went to his honor and his prosperity straight from the church door. The path is still there. You need the church and the church needs you."

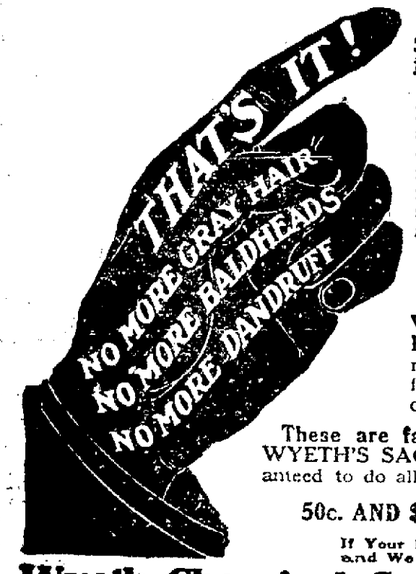
HAIR WHITE 'AS SNOW
Restored to Natural Color with One Bottle of
WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY
The Only True Hair Restorer, Tonic and Rejuvenator
ALMOST A MIRACLE

My hair was as white as snow when I commenced using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. One bottle restored my hair to its natural dark brown color. As I am now 70 years old, I consider the result most remarkable. It is an agreeable and refreshing hair dressing, keeping the hair soft and glossy, without being in the least greasy or sticky.
WM. WESTLAKE,
210 West Main Street, Rochester, N. Y.



Why hesitate when WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY is daily producing just such results?

After years of study and analysis of the hair, we have been able to produce an ideal Hair Tonic and Restorer, which contains an actual constituent of hair, combined with ingredients of recognized merit for treatment of hair and scalp diseases. It makes and keeps the scalp clean and healthy, gives life, strength and lustre to the hair, and restores faded and gray hair to natural color.

No matter how long and thick your hair is, WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY will make it longer and thicker. It will remove every trace of dandruff in a few days, stop falling in one week, and start a new growth in from one to three months.

These are facts that have been proven in scores of cases. WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY is guaranteed to do all that it is claimed to do or the price will be refunded.

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 21.—John [illegible] a strain of the tendon of Paul Jones, the Cornellian, who broke the world's record for the mile by going the distance in [illegible] minutes 15 2-5 seconds at the inter-collegiate meet in the Harvard stadium, Cambridge, May 27, 1911, will not run again this winter because of an injury. Some apprehension is felt among college men as to whether he will be able to run in the intercollegiates next spring, but his physician recently expressed belief that Jones would be in shape by the time the meet is held. Jones is suffering from a strain of the tendon of Achilles.

His last race was in the inter-collegiate cross country run at Brookline, Mass., Nov. 25, which he won, going the distance, about seven miles, in 34 minutes 41 3-5 seconds. He is considered the greatest amateur distance runner this country ever produced. Jones was entered to complete in the National A. A. U. indoor championships to be held in New York Dec. 26 and 27. Picture shows Jones chatting with Putnam, one of the Cornell track men.

Q.—Since the Kings of earth claim to reign by "DIVINE RIGHT," by what authority did Satan offer Jesus Christ the rulership of the kingdoms of the world?

Answer.—When we say that the Kings rule by "Divine right," we would not be understood to mean that their kingdoms are the kingdoms of God or any part thereof; nor that God endorses their rule or rulers, wars, etc. The Scriptures intimate that 2500 years ago God took away the earthly kingdom which He had established in the nation of Israel, and gave the lease of power successively to four great universal rulers or empires. These are pictured in the book of Daniel as a great image: Babylonia, the head; Medo-Persia, the breast and arms; Greece, the belly and thighs; Rome, the legs of iron, including the present divided state of the Roman Empire represented by the toes, and the commingling of state and Church, as represented in the commingled clay and iron. Speaking of this, the Apostle declares, "The powers that be are ordained [permitted] of God," and he tells us, the Church, that we should be subject to these powers, not because they represent the Divine will, but because it is His will to permit them to be in control, and that we are therefore to be fully submissive to the Divine arrangement of the matter.—Daniel ii. 31-37; Romans xiii. 1.

Satan is Scripturally termed, "The prince of this world," and again, "The god [or ruler] of this world." (John xii. 31; II Corinthians iv. 4.) But he holds this dominion, not by any authority from God, but by deceiving mankind through false doctrines, superstition, etc. Satan could, therefore, very properly, very truthfully propose to Jesus that if He would work in harmony with him he would give Him mastery over the earth—make Him King of the earth.

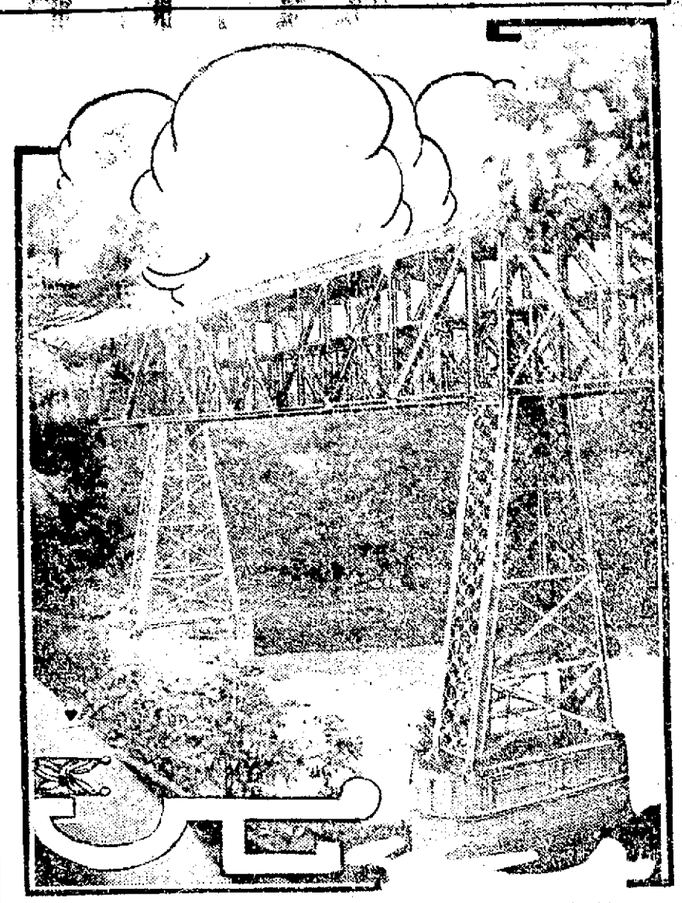
Railroad Bridge In Kentucky Is 308 Feet Above the River Level



KENTUCKY can now boast the highest bridge over a navigable stream in America. The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Pacific Railroad company has recently constructed a bridge over the Kentucky river that bears this distinction. It is 308 feet above low water. The bridge is 1,230 feet long and cost $1,250,000. It is thirty feet higher than the old bridge, around which it was built. The old bridge was used constantly while the new one was being constructed, and there was no interruption of traffic. Now that the new bridge is in service the old one, which can be seen in the photograph, will be removed. The new bridge is much more massive than the old, and it is estimated by engineers as being four times as strong as the bridge it replaces. In the picture above the first passenger train that crossed the new bridge is shown.

Eastern Star Installation

The Eastern Star held its annual installation of officers last evening in the Masonic lodge rooms. The installation was a public affair and the members of the lodge had as their guests for the occasion their husbands and the members of their families. Union Meet Missionary Societies

Members of all the women's missionary societies of the city will hold a union meeting next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Presbyterian church. Miss Gamertsfelder, who is home from Africa where she served for years as a missionary, will present aspects of the field with which she is particularly familiar, her address being the most important feature of the program. The committee in charge is working upon plans which promise to make the program one of inestimable benefit to those interested in the cause of missions.

The first of these union meetings was held years ago when churches in Coshocton were few; as new churches, consequently new missionary organizations have been added, the attendance upon the meetings has increased until now they are among the most largely attended of any of the joint activities of the churches.

This union meeting is usually held during the Week of Prayer but as Miss Gamertsfelder would not be able to come to Coshocton at that time the committee was glad to make its plans to suit her convenience.

It is hoped that the meeting will be large attended.

Our Lighthouse Service.

Although the United States has the smallest foreign going merchant marine in the world, it possesses the most perfectly equipped and elaborate lighthouse service to be found on any coast line. During the last half century this service has cost $30,000,000, and its maintenance calls for the appropriation of about $7,000,000 annually.

PENSIONS FOR MOTHERS

Illinois now has a law which provides that any poor mother may receive a pension to aid her in rearing her family. There is no joker in the law and no burdensome restrictions. She needs only two possessions to entitle her to the benefits of this law—poverty and her infant brood.

As the well known journal, The Public, puts it: "She is under no obligation to charitable persons of philanthropic instincts and means, nor to charity societies or church or other private associations. She gets the money as a right and not as a favor, OUT OF THE PUBLIC TREASURY INTO WHICH SHE PAYS MONEY, WHETHER SHE KNOWS IT OR NOT, AS A DIRECT TAXPAYER OR AN INDIRECT TAXPAYER."

The truth in the latter part of the quotation should not be overlooked. The capitals are ours, but the point is well taken. Every widow, the same as every workman and every child in the country, are all paying tax into the public treasury. It matters not whether their names appear on the tax duplicate. It matters not if they never owned a cent's worth of real or personal property.

They are all taxed and they all pay tribute to the State. They may not know it. Indeed, it has long been the policy of our government to pursue an indirect, rather than a direct form of taxation. IT HAS BEEN A SHREWD POLICY TO PURSUE, ESPECIALLY FOR THE PURPOSES OF THE HIGHLY PROTECTED INTERESTS. SHOULD THIS GOVERNMENT DECIDE TO ABOLISH THE INDIRECT METHOD OF RAISING ITS REVENUES AND COMPEL THE PEOPLE TO PAY THEIR FEDERAL TAXES DIRECTLY TO A TREASURER, AS THEY PAY THEIR COUNTY TAXES TO A TREASURER, OUR HIGHLY COMPLEX AND ARTICAL TARIFF SYSTEM WOULD COLLAPSE IN A WEEK.

The Public continues: "The pension is paid to the poor mother for bringing up her children at home, as money is paid to teachers for bringing them up at school. The families of dead workers and those of poor convicts will not any longer be left to destruction where this law applies. THE FAMILY HOME, NOT THE CHARITY INSTITUTION, IS THE IDEAL OF THIS LAW."

The fact is notorious that the tax laws of all, or practically all of our states are monstrously unfair. The burdens of taxation fall heaviest on shoulders least able to bear them. The holders of our intangible wealth, the Morgans, the Rockefellers and Carnegies, the men whose wealth is concealable, contribute comparatively nothing for the support of state and federal government.

The poor of the land, whether they are home owners or not, are heavily taxed at every turn. These facts are so well known as not to merit repetition here. They are simply pointed out as the presumable basis of the Illinois law and in justification for the pension which the state has granted to poor mothers.

To be sure, it will be scouted in certain quarters as socialistic—and it is. BUT IT IS MORE THAN SOCIALISTIC. IT IS JUST AND FOR THAT REASON MORE OF OUR GREAT INDUSTRIAL COMMONWEALTHS COULD WELL AFFORD TO PUT IT ON THEIR STATUTE BOOKS.

THE STUDENT WHO WORKS

The Englishman can never understand how a young university man can ever hope to be a gentleman if he "goes in" for working his way through college. It is quite improper in the isles, you know, for a "chap" to lay his hands to any work. They sip a great deal of tea convivially at Oxford and Cambridge, and Eton and Harrow, and do a lot of visiting at the homes of the governors, and little studying, it seems—except in vacation. And the strange thing about it is that the system turns out a good product—rather a gentler and better and more thoroughly well balanced man, perhaps, than some of our own universities. At all events the system of making "gentlemen" is so satisfactory to the Britons that it is a real wonder to them how the "chaps" over in America "go in for grafting [working] their way through 'varsity."

London papers comment on how some young men are working their way through Columbia. It is admitted that the young man who earned $2,740 last summer serving as press agent for an actress, was a "clever chap," and there is a certain admiration for the young men who made $975 selling stocks and $595 peddling straw hats, but the Briton can not quite see how they can hope to be "gentlemen"; while the young man who made $345 and got his meals by waiting table, and $160 more by acting as a subject in psyological tests is quite impossible and forever damned. The British university man can not comprehend how any man such as the one who earned $360 by laying bricks during one vacation, could ever get into a university.

Of course we think little or nothing of such cases, for we have seen men rise to prominence who started in the most humble way to obtain by their labor an education that they otherwise could not have had. We admire them for it. The British attitude, on the other hand, was rather forcibly shown a few years ago when one of our university crews went over to row the British 'varsity men. When it was discovered that there were two men on the American crew who were "in employment" as a means of getting an education the Britons refused to row against them because "they were not gentlemen." Eventually, of course, the matter was arranged, but the record of the aristocratic sentiment in the British universities was made, and it amused us.—Indianapolis News.

The Hughes presidential boom, like several others recently started, was probably launched to add diversity to the campaign, rather than for any practical results that might accrue to Mr. Hughes.

A street car conductor told the contributing editor of The Outlook to use his brains. The colonel has doubtless been using them ever since devising a suitable punishment for that conductor.

It is remarkable how many convicts who are sent home from the penitentiary to die, recover sufficiently to go to work at once promoting all kinds of mining and railway schemes.

Just let a prominent club announce a banquet now-a-days and when the time comes to dine one whole side of the table will be found to be taken up by presidential candidates.

NEW CARDINALS WILL BE CREATED

Another Consistory Will Probably Be Held In the Spring.

Rome, Dec. 26.—Pope Pius has decided to hold another consistory in the spring, according to a semi-official announcement at the vatican A number of new cardinals will be created and it seems certain that the control of the sacred college will be taken away from the Italians. It is believed that four cardinals will be created, three of whom will be foreigners.

Monsignor Bello, the patriarch of Lisbon, whom Portugal has decided to prosecute on a charge of conspiring against the state, is believed to have been the cardinal named secretly at the last consistory. If conditions in Portugal clarify, public announcement of his elevation will be made at the consistory in the spring

74-year-old Apple Tree Bears Fruit

W. W. Unterzuber, of Belmont County, Ohio, has a 74 year Roxbury Russet apple tree that produced this past season 58 bushels and 8 pounds of fruit, according to his own statement. Up until 3 years ago it had never borne a bushel of merchatable apples. Mr. Unterzuber recently told a representative of the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, how this change came about. Three years ago an old man from Iowa came to his farm to see, as he said, the old home place once more before he died. He told Mr. Unterzuber that the apple tree in question had been planted in 1833. This aroused Mr. Unterzuber's interest and he decided to give the old tree a chance. It was carefully pruned, and fertilized with manure and commercial fertilizer. The rough bark was scraped off the trunk and the tree thoroughly sprayed. The next season the tree gave a crop of 24 bushels of apples. The fertilizing, pruning, spraying and mulching were continued with the results last fall as stated above.

SAFE AND SANE NEW YEAR'S DAY

Demanded by Chicago Young People Who Want Saloons Closed.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—"A safe and sane New Year" is the demand of the Young People's Civic league of Chicago. The movement has been joined by the Christian Endeavor society and other religious societies of young people and Mayor Harrison will be asked by them to revoke the licenses of saloonkeepers and cafe proprietors who sell liquor on Sunday, Dec. 31, or who sell after 1 a. m. on Jan. 1.

Turks and Arabs Concentrate.

Rome, Dec. 26.—Wireless messages have been seriously interfered with by storms, but so far as can be learned there was no fighting about Tripoli. Reports say that the Turks and Arabs are concentrating in force at Birtrobas with the evident intention of attacking Amzara.

American Consulate In Tripoli; Italian Soldiers Pitching Tents

Photos by American Press Association.

WHILE many observers have given testimony as to the cruelty of the Italian troops in punishing what the Italians term the "treachery" of the Arabs who sought to retake Tripoli by a guerrilla attack, some of the same correspondents praise highly the courage of the soldiers of the invading force. "For sheer, cold, unemotional daring," says one of them, "I have never seen anything to equal it. I saw some fine sights and steady coolness in the South African campaign, but everything has been eclipsed by what I saw in Tripoli." This tribute is from an English correspondent too. Whatever may be the truth about the situation in Tripoli, concealed in large part, as it doubtless is, by the rigid censorship enforced by the Italian military administration, there can be little doubt that the city is not now a desirable place of residence, with the terrors of cholera added to those of war. Yet the American consul, John Q. Wood, refused to leave his post when the commander of the United States scout cruiser Chester put into the harbor and offered to take him to a place of safety. Instead he declared himself willing to forego his annual month's leave of absence. The photograph above gives some idea of the surroundings in which Mr. Wood has chosen to spend his vacation.

Booty of Burglars, Who Wear Gloves to Avoid Leaving Finger Prints.

New York, Dec. 26.—Graduates of the newer schools in burglary operated on a safe in a 5 and 10-cent store in Harlem and got away with nearly $4,000 in cash. The men entered by way of the skylight, drew electricity from a live wire to operate their drill, and with nitroglycerin easily blew off the safe door. Beside the safe were found kid gloves, which the burglars had evidently used to avoid leaving finger prints, which recently have led to the arrest and indictment of several alleged burglars.

FEDERAL PROHIBITION LAWS WANTED

Sought by Iowa Senator, Who Promises a Hard Fight.

Washington, Dec. 26. — Senator Kenyon of Iowa is back of a plan to make Uncle Sam aid states that have passed prohibition laws, and a hard fight will be made this winter to pass his bill, which prohibits the interstate shipment of liquor to states that have by statute barred the demon rum. Senator Kenyon is also making an effort to economize for the government by cutting the mileage allowed to senators and representatives in half, giving them but 10 cents a mile for the round trip instead of 10 cents each way.

End of Mexican Revolt.

Mexico City, Dec. 26.—The surrender of General Bernardo Reyes at Linares, Nuevo Leon, it is believed here, marks the end of the Mexican rebellion. His following in Mexico for years was considered very strong and to this was attributed much of the apprehension of the government when he started his revolution. Riding alone into Linares, the gray-haired rebel gave himself up to Lieutenant Placido Rodriguez, commander of 25 rurales.

YOUTH GIVES HIMSELF UP

Says He Forged Father's Name to Check and Ran Off With Woman.

Kenosha, Wis., Dec. 26.—Loyal R. Walker, 23, son of L. J. Walker, a former Pittsburger, now retired and living at Wilkinsburg, Pa., former star athlete of Franklin and Marshall college gave himself a Christmas present of a clear conscience when he gave himself up to the police here and asked that he be held on a charge of forgery. Walker explained to the police that he had forged the name of his father to a check for $51 on last Wednesday and that on Friday he had gone to Chicago with a woman known as Lou Darrell. Sunday night he left the woman at the Stratford hotel in Chicago and went to Kenosha and gave himself up to the police.

The father of the young man notified the police that he would come here for him at once, and directed that he be held subject to his coming. The father declared that he would make good all his shortages. Walker declared that the Darrell woman was from Pittsburg and that he supposed she was still at the Chicago hotel.

"DOC" QUIGLEY, MINSTREL, DEAD

Columbus, O., Dec. 26.—Doc-ray Quigley, 38, better known as "Doc" Quigley, general stage manager and producer for the Al G. Field minstrels, died at the home of his sister here after a short illness. He leaves a wife, two brothers and two sisters. "Doc" Quigley was known all over the United States for his ability as a minstrel performer to use dancing as a medium of caricature, and by eccentric uses of the art, create uproarious laughter.

DREDGE CREW IS MAROONED

Savannah, Dec. 26.—Captain J. P. Davis, master of the new steam dredge No. 10, of the International Bridge company of New York which sunk off the Carolina coast after she had been deserted by master and crew, reached Savannah, leaving his crew marooned on the small coast islands.

Woman in Role of Extortioner

New York, Dec. 26.—Andrew Carnegie has made it possible for the big peace banquet to be held next Saturday night at the Waldorf-Astoria, with President Taft as the guest of honor, but Mr. Carnegie spent many uncomfortable hours before he succeeded in getting various peace societies to bury the hatchet. He had to reorganize the executive committee in charge of the dinner in order to shut down on charges of graft and extortion, and it was necessary for him to assure the president, Secretary of State Knox, foreign ambassadors and a number of distinguished Americans that they needn't fear unpleasant developments.

Mr. Carnegie was greatly surprised and thoroughly chagrined when he heard, about the first of last November, from the Rev. William H. Short of Mt. Vernon, a close friend, that somebody had made a queer proposal to Proprietor William C. Muschenheim of the Hotel Astor. That somebody was a woman, a friend and an employe of a member of the former executive committee of the citizens' peace banquet. Her zeal led her to suggest to Mr. Muschenheim that his hotel extend a rebate of $1.50 on every cover, when at $10 a cover would amount to something like $1,500, since at least 1,000 people were expected to buy tickets for the peace banquet. It happened that Herr Muschenheim had heard things, which led him to believe that a stenographer in ambush might not be a bad thing to have around when he discussed dinner arrangements with the lady. So the shorthand man was planted comfortably and when the lady had finished talking Mr. Muschenheim had an interesting record for his leisurely inspection. The more he thought over the private conversation the less he liked it. He sent for the Rev. Mr. Short, whom he knew was pretty close to Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Short looked over the stenographic record, took a copy and called on Mr. Carnegie.

Story Roused Carnegie.

The leading advocate of peace was considerably disturbed. He sent for Charles R. MacAuley, the cartoonist and president of the Press club, who was familiar with his wishes and who was the chairman of a dinner committee of 15 club papers. Mr. Carnegie said that something had to be done; that the situation was distressing looked at in any light. He told Mr. MacAuley and others that it would be dreadful if the newspapers got hold of the story because of the embarrassing position that Mr. Taft, the diplomats and other prominent men would be placed in. He suggested that the dinner be postponed until there had been a reorganization of the committee and the elimination of persons who lacked—well, tact.

So Mr. MacAuley, the Rev. Mr. Short and others who knew Mr. Carnegie's mind set about to smooth matters over.

But Herr Muschenheim's feathers were ruffled and he declined to be smoothed. He notified the dinner committee that the Hotel Astor was no longer an applicant for the job of feeding the peace folk. About that time the acting chairman of the executive committee, Edward Owings Towne, a Brooklyn lawyer, heard from Washington that President Taft wouldn't be able to attend the banquet and that the foreign ambassadors would follow the president's lead. An inkling at least of the story that upset Mr. Carnegie had got over to the capital. Then Mr. Carnegie informed Mr. Towne that he certainly would not preside at the dinner unless he was assured that Mr. Taft would be there.

Things Straightened Out.

Mr. Carnegie's friends, however, took hold and began to straighten things out. Mr. Towne was persuaded to retire from the executive committee. The services of the lady who talked so ingeniously with Mr. Muschenheim were dispensed with. Assurances were given to representatives of the various peace societies in New York that talk of scandal and graft was nonsense and that the dinner arrangements would be properly taken care of.

John Temple Graves saw President Taft and prevailed upon the president to accept an invitation. The president agreed, and so eventually did Secretary of State Knox, the Russian, Japanese, Austrian, Turkish and other diplomatic representatives, and then, of course, Mr. Carnegie let it be known that he would fire the first blank cartridge at the banquet.

The executive committee was reorganized with Judge E. H. Cary as chairman, Henry Clews as vice chairman; John Temple Graves; John F. Crowell; Charles M. Whitney, treasurer, and Captain M. J. Bloomer, executive secretary.

TALKS TO CONVICTS

Governor of Tennessee Plans Many Prison Reforms.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 26.—After a night spent in the state penitentiary Governor Ben W. Hooper has announced that he will institute many reforms. He will do away with the stripes and substitute a uniform, and he plans the establishment of a school for all convicts. When the governor entered the prison he said he would stay two days, but one day proved all he wanted.

OUTBREAK AT TABRIZ

Persians Claim It Was Due to the Aggression of the Russians.

London, Dec. 26. — From Persian sources it is stated positively that the outbreak at Tabriz was due to the aggression of the Russian. It is stated that the natives were told not to retaliate under any circumstances. After the fighting overtures were made to the Russians, but these were ignored and the slaughter continued. Russian reports, on the other hand, insist there was heavy fighting, during which the czar's forces lost heavily. One newspaper places the Russian loss at 150 killed or wounded. It is added that the Russian position is not precarious and that the consulate is being guarded and the consul is not in any danger.

One report says that the outbreak and the consequent stubbornness of the Fidias was due to the presence among them of a number of lawless Russian subjects of the Caucasus provinces, who rejoiced at the opportunity to strike a blow at their erstwhile masters.

Resh and Enzeli are reported to be quiet now, but they are said to be smoldering with suppressed excitement. The viceroy of the Russian Caucasus has telegraphed a prompt response to the government's orders and has assured the Russian home office grimly that there will be no doubt, so far as he is concerned, that the disorders will be immediately suppressed.

Roundhouse Roof Falls.

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 26.—Half of the roof of the old Pennsylvania railroad roundhouse in this city, now used for the housing of passenger locomotives on all divisions, fell in without warning. A number of workmen were injured, but none fatally. The fire department was on the ground promptly and prevented the building catching fire. About 20 locomotives were damaged. The accident was due to weakened roof truss giving way.

Quicksand.

Quicksand differs from beach and other sand in that the individual grains have become worn by water or wind until the normal facets and angles have been abraded and each grain has become more or less spherical. The coefficient of friction is thus reduced to the minimum and the bed does not pack when dry and when wet behaves like a fluid. The depth of quicksand is conditioned by the depth of the hardpan or other compact material upon which the sand rests. In building operations on the lower end of Manhattan island quicksands are encountered more than 100 feet in depth. Near Pueblo, Colo., in 1875, a train was drawn by a derailed locomotive into a quicksand and was swallowed up beyond discovery, although probed for to a depth of fifty feet. In certain smaller littoral quicksands, bodies which have been engulfed are in time brought to the surface at the edge of the shivering sands. This is due to the structure of the containing bowl of rock which permits a sluggish circulatory movement of the plastic mass.

Had Enough of Law.

A gentleman who is now general superintendent of a railroad began life by trying to practice law in a Missouri village. One of his first cases was before his father, who was a justice of the peace. After a stormy wrangle between the young attorney and his adversary the old gentleman decided the case against his son's client. The young man gave vent to some expressions of indignation, gathered up his books and started to leave the room. His father pushed his specs on to his forehead and began mildly to lecture him, saying:

"Young man, do you expect to make your living practicing law?"

The son, who had by this time reached the door, shouted back as he retired from the field:

"Not before such a blamed fool court as this."

He abandoned the law and engaged in railroading with great success.—Green Bag.

A Blot on Its Record.

The evil of adulteration has its humorous phases, one of which is brought out in "Science and the Criminal," a book by C. Ainsworth Mitchell, the head of the inspection bureau of Scotland Yard.

An eminent English counsel was cross examining Mr. Siemens, the electrical expert, in a case in which there was a dispute about the working of some electrical plant.

"I think, Mr. Siemens, that you have had a long experience with electricity."

"That is so."

"Well, now, I want you to tell me whether in the course of all your experience you have ever known electricity to be adulterated?"

"In only one instance."

"When was that?" eagerly asked counsel.

"In the phrase 'greased lightning,'" the expert replied demurely.

A Difference of Opinion.

On one occasion Bishop G. of Atlanta purposed leaving home on a Saturday night train, arriving in Savannah the next morning in time to fill a pulpit engagement. His brother, much his senior, old fashioned in his notions of Sabbath observance, hearing of the proposed Sunday trip, took him to task about it. The bishop explained that he was staying home as long as possible to take care of his children, who had been ill all the week, so that his wife would be in better shape to nurse them during his absence. "You see, Allen," the explanation ended, "it's a case of the ox in the ditch."

"Ox in the ditch nothing!" snorted his brother in disgust. "It's a case of a donkey in a sleeping car!"—St. Louis Republic.

Had a Full Course.

The sign in front of a Harlem restaurant attracted the eye of a farmer, and he went in. He had a raw, a fry, a stew, a pan roast, a broil and a steam on toast. When he got through he laid a quarter on the cashier's desk, only to be told that he was shy a dollar and a quarter.

"No, by jing," said the farmer. "A quarter's right. Doesn't your sign say, 'Oysters In Every Style For Twenty-five Cents?'"—Lippincott's.

Not Sure of Him.

"Why are you so sure that he loves you?"

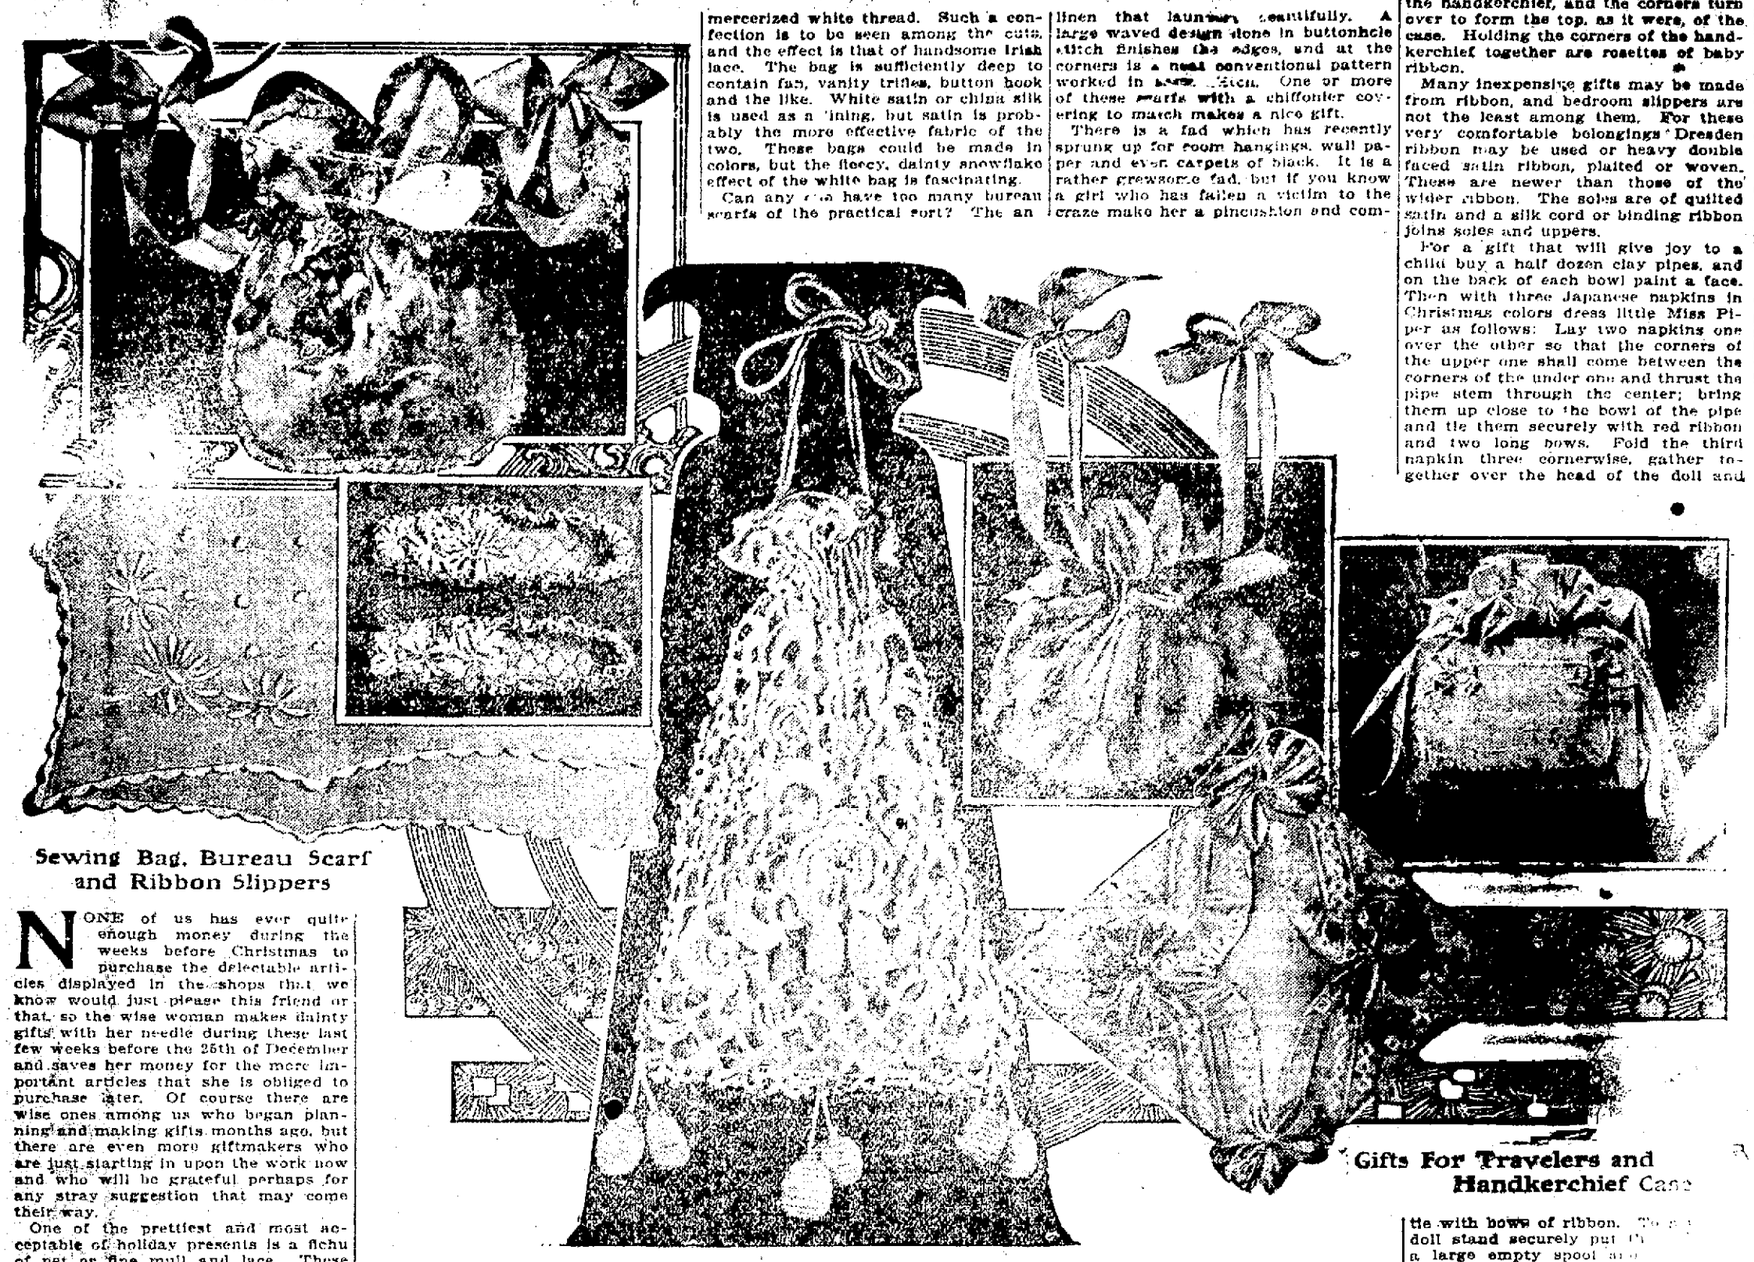
HANDMADE CHRISTMAS GIFTS TO PLEASE YOUR FRIENDS



Sewing Bag, Bureau Scarf and Ribbon Slippers

Crocheted Party Bag

Gifts For Travelers and Handkerchief Case

NONE of us has ever quite enough money during the weeks before Christmas to purchase the delectable articles displayed in the shops that we know would just please this friend or that, so the wise woman makes dainty gifts with her needle during these last few weeks before the 25th of December and saves her money for the more important articles that she is obliged to purchase later. Of course there are wise ones among us who began planning and making gifts months ago, but there are even more giftmakers who are just starting in upon the work now and who will be grateful perhaps for any stray suggestion that may come their way.

One of the prettiest and most acceptable of holiday presents is a fichu of net or fine mull and lace. These accessories are so attractive for afternoon wear about the house or for dainty home dinner wear. Naturally one may buy any number of these in the shops, but [illegible] a girl clever with her crochet hook can make, at a cost [illegible] a very handsome affair from heavy mercerized white thread. Such a confection is to be seen among the cuts, and the effect is that of handsome Irish lace. The bag is sufficiently deep to contain fan, vanity trifles, button hook and the like. White satin or china silk is used as a lining, but satin is probably the more effective fabric of the two. These bags could be made in colors, but the fleecy, dainty snowflake effect of the white bag is fascinating.

Can any one have too many bureau scarfs of the practical sort? The answer is certainly, No! And the fashion in these coverings has changed from the frilly thing of silk and lace to that of embroidered linen or some kind of washable material. The bureau scarf illustrated is of rather heavy linen that launders beautifully. A large waved design done in buttonhole stitch finishes the edges, and at the corners is a neat conventional pattern worked in satin stitch. One or more of these scarfs with a chiffonier covering to match makes a nice gift.

There is a fad which has recently sprung up for room hangings, wall paper and even carpets of black. It is a rather grewsome fad, but if you know a girl who has fallen a victim to the craze make her a pincushion and comfortably pretty and useful is a mouchoir case made from a fine lace trimmed handkerchief. A square pad sprinkled with sachet is fitted into the bottom of the handkerchief, and the corners turn over to form the top, as it were, of the case. Holding the corners of the handkerchief together are rosettes of baby ribbon.

Many inexpensive gifts may be made from ribbon, and bedroom slippers are not the least among them. For these very comfortable belongings Dresden ribbon may be used or heavy double faced satin ribbon, plaited or woven. These are newer than those of the wider ribbon. The soles are of quilted satin and a silk cord or binding ribbon joins soles and uppers.

For a gift that will give joy to a child buy a half dozen clay pipes, and on the back of each bowl paint a face. Then with three Japanese napkins in Christmas colors dress little Miss Piper as follows: Lay two napkins one over the other so that the corners of the upper one shall come between the corners of the under one and thrust the pipe stem through the center; bring them up close to the bowl of the pipe and tie them securely with red ribbon and two long bows. Fold the third napkin three cornerwise, gather together over the head of the doll and tie with bows of ribbon. To [illegible] doll stand securely put [illegible] a large empty spool [illegible] will stand upright.

For the friend who [illegible] the globe during the [illegible] one of the handy bags [illegible] has a needle case on the [illegible] it may be easily seen [illegible] these inexpensive little [illegible] is sure to be a hit if sent to the right person.

FOR THE KITCHEN

NOT every housekeeper knows that many useful articles for the kitchen can be made from ordinary wooden boxes such as may be obtained from the grocery store.

From two condensed milk boxes a wall cabinet holding jars containing spices, salt and dry groceries is made.

Remove the lids and nail the boxes together, having their sides touch. This forms the cabinet with one shelf. Another shelf is added by fitting in a piece of the lid halfway between the center of the box. Smooth the wood with sandpaper, paint it white or some light pretty color. Attach it to the wall by nails driven through the back near the top and you have a convenient place for various kitchen commodities.

By removing two sides of a soap box and setting them in the box itself two and one-half inches from the top and bottom a handy well proportioned rack is made for holding such small articles as clock, cookbooks, matches, etc.

For saucepans and cover holders make a wall rack from a window glass box about an inch deep.

A rack for kitchen knives, forks and spoons is made in the same way, only pierce the top shelf with a row of small holes two inches apart the length of the shelf and the edge of it notched with little square slots one-quarter of an inch wide. Plates can be kept on the bottom shelf.

Three canned tomato boxes nailed together and fitted with shelves make an ideal holder for pans of all kinds. Many a utensil will find its way into such a box if one is handy.

All of these boxes should be carefully painted or sandpapered and varnished. It is surprising how many different useful things can be fashioned from the homely "box" if one has a little ingenuity and knows how to drive a nail straight.

WHEN SUFFERING FROM A COLD.

Numbers of people are suffering just now from irritating colds in the head. A very simple home remedy which brings almost instant relief is to pour half a pint of boiling water on a dram of pulverized camphor and to inhale the vapor for about ten or fifteen minutes. The annoying fits of sneezing, running eyes and heavy feeling in the head will yield quickly to this remedy.

COSTUME FOR THE DANCE

NE chiffon embroidered in an iris design in black and silver is draped over pink messaline satin in this lovely gown. The upper part of the bodice rests an extreme decolletage, but the pink chiffon is really drawn high over neck. The sleeves are of black chiffon over pink chiffon, and there is a of the black chiffon below the black and silver embroidery on the skirt.

CHRISTMAS RECIPES

PLUM PUDDING.—One pound of butter, one pound of suet freed from [illegible] and chopped fine, one pound of [illegible] and one-half pounds of flour, two pounds of currants [illegible] well over carefully after they are washed, two pounds of raisins seeded, chopped and dredged with flour, one-quarter of a pound of citron shredded fine, twelve eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately, one pint of milk, one cupful of brandy, one ounce of cloves, one-half ounce of mace, two grated nutmegs. Cream butter and sugar, beat in the yolks of eggs when you have whipped them smooth and light, next put in the milk, then the flour alternately with the beaten whites, then the brandy and spices, lastly the fruit, well dredged with flour. Mix all thoroughly, wring out your pudding cloth in hot water, flour well inside, pour in the mixture and boil five hours.

Steamed Christmas Pudding.—For the best recipe in a competition open to all the world the late Queen Victoria gave the prize of 2 guineas for this recipe: One pound of seeded raisins, three-fourths of a pound of [illegible] one pound [illegible] one-fourth pound of flour, [illegible] of brown sugar, one pound of currants, one pound of [illegible] candied orange peel, one pound of chopped suet, a scant teaspoonful of salt, five eggs, one-half a tumbler of coffee or brandy, one-half nutmeg and the grated peel of a lemon. Mix flour, fruit and spices well, add breadcrumbs and suet, beat the eggs, add to them the coffee or brandy, pour over the dry ingredients and mix well. Pack into small greased molds and steam eight hours at the time of making and two hours when wanted for use. Better results are obtained by steaming than by boiling. The water must be kept boiling steadily, adding to it occasionally. This pudding can be made weeks before Christmas and will keep indefinitely. Serve with hard sauce.

Christmas Fruit Cake.—Christmas fruit cake should be made early, as it improves with age. For the cake take one pound of sugar, one and one-eighth pounds of butter, one-half pound of candied citron, four pounds of currants, four pounds of raisins chopped and seeded, nine eggs, one tablespoonful each of mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, cloves and three gills of brandy. Beat sugar and butter to a cream, add eggs, well beaten; flour and spice well sifted together, and last the fruit well dredged in flour. This amount will make two small cakes or one large cake. For half the quantity it will take three hours to bake in a moderate oven. It will keep for years and improves with time. Wrap in oiled paper and keep in an airtight box.

EMBROIDERED CHIFFON BLOUSE

CHARMING MODEL IN GRAY CHIFFON.

GRAY chiffon embroidered in pink and green shades is laid over white satin to make this pretty blouse. Revers of white satin bordered with cerise, plaited white chiffon frills and cuffs and collar of Irish lace make the blouse very distinctive.

Sleeves Long, Collars High

THE blouse is still an important factor in the wardrobe of the well dressed woman, and this season an almost imperceptible change has crept into this useful garment.

At the fall openings were seen many blouses of the smartest and most expensive variety cut in kimono style, differing little or not at all from the models of last winter, but recently the kimono blouse has been superseded by the waist with long sleeves and high collar.

The smartly dressed woman is wearing a blouse of this sort with her tailored suit, finished with a side frill and ruffles at the wrist.

Paris has furnished a surprise by going over enthusiastically to white and cream blouses, after having stoutly insisted for several seasons past that only through a blouse matching the coat and skirt in color could a two piece costume be saved. But these cream blouses are chiefly of one special sort. The models of fine net daintily embroidered, wrought with fine hand tucks, sometimes lace trimmed. These have taken the place of the fine lingerie blouse and are worn by Parisiennes ever, with the heaviest of woolen or velvet suits, offsetting to some extent the exceeding warmth of the woolly and furry and fleecy materials the tailors are exhibiting this winter. Velvet and the black wooden beads add much to the style of the costume.

NEW YORK HORSE SHOW

IN BUFF SERGE AND VELVET.

AT the horse show this year the costumes were more elaborate and fetching than usual, and among the handsome gowns the one illustrated stood out conspicuous for its smartness. The material used was buff colored serge combined with velvet in fine pin stripes of black and white. The sash of black velvet and the black wooden beads add much to the style of the costume.

Verses to Accompany Christmas Gifts

A calendar:
May all the days
Throughout this year
Sunshiny be to you,
My dear.

Handkerchiefs—half dozen:
Six snowy bits of whiteness
With love I send to thee,
Each stitch put in with rightness,
So your Christmas they may be.

A pocketbook:
Some have called me trash,
But that never can be true,
For when I'M filled with cash
You never will be blue.

A box of cigars:
Many a film of fairy fancy
Goes up in smoke each year;
But, being a woman, of course
I can't see what dream chrysalids are here.

Needle and pin case:
Needle and pins! Needle and pins!
When you've no place for them the trouble begins.

Magazine subscription:
Though Christmas comes but once a year,
This magazine will come a dozen.
Each time when it comes may it cheer
And thought of me keep a-buzzin'.

Christmas greetings:
In memory of the child divine,
To thee I send this thought.
So may the season's joys be thine,
Thy days with blessings fraught.

To Dress Well on Slim Purse

TO dress well and yet be economical is a problem before which the bravest of women stands aghast in these days of high prices.

There is one suggestion which she may follow, and if she follows it consistently it will help her more than anything else to look well on a small sum.

The suggestion is this: Follow carefully the latest fashion in all the details—such as the neckwear, the sleeves, the length of skirts, the veil and the manner of putting it on, the shoes and gloves, hats—and at the same time avoid that excess in matters of dress which makes a gown ridiculous and out of date in a few months.

If every one is wearing golden brown avoid it. If all the gowns are made short under the arms moderate the fashion decidedly before you order a frock that must do for several years. If enormous hats are worn see that yours are medium. Never choose a bright color that will mark your costume.

There are many ways of being up to date without being in the least conspicuous.

This is the only way to economize in the matter of dress, and, though one's garments may not attract attention, one may be able to keep up to date and attractively dressed on a slim purse.

THE FRINGE IS THE THING

[illegible] your dress allowance is a meager [illegible] and you still wish to be up to [illegible] your toilet acquire a new and [illegible] learned accomplishment, the [illegible] of fringe, for fringe is worn [illegible] winter in every width and arrangement. You may be lucky enough [illegible] yards of it stored away in your [illegible] boxes, and, if so, you may [illegible] forth. Otherwise, though you [illegible] afford to buy it, you may possibly [illegible] yourself of some beautiful trimming by making them for yourself. [illegible] all it is only a matter of stringing beads and sewing them to a [illegible] guimpe, but you must have skill and taste in the blending of the colors and in the weaving of the pattern.

Silk fringe may also be made at home, the cords for the purpose being sold by the piece. Take the longest possible piece of cardboard of the width required, turn the cord over and over the cardboard, keeping it even and letting each winding touch, but not lap over the catch. Catch each at the top by a stitch and cut the other end. Simple knots are a matter of practice. Macrame fringe is a fancy of the moment, and the worker in macrame might weave a really handsome dress fringe.

A NOVEL HOLIDAY PARTY

A YOUNG woman who has hitherto been noted for her generosity to her friends at Christmas has fallen upon evil times and will have this year a "economic party." More trifles will represent her generosity, but she expects to have more fun out of the affair than she ever had out of just sending the chauffeur around with a carload of packages to deliver. Her plan is a bridge party on Christmas eve, with just a welsh rabbit and ale later, and then a procession to a table with a tiny tree and numerous packages of all sizes and for each guest. One by one the guests will make a choice and then fall in line to await the signal for opening the packages, after which the prospective hostess expects the joy to be unconfined, for many of the gifts are jokes, and a whispered word will insure their being selected by the right persons.

If more persons of moderate means would follow this plan and turn their Christmas giving into a jollification there might be fewer anxious moments over the balancing of the account book in January, and no one would indulge in speculations as to how the finances of their acquaintances could stand the strain of their presents.
